Sommaire des effets létaux du pH sur les poissons

(Alabaster et Lloyd 1982 (tiré de CCMRE 1987) in Ministère du Développement durable, de l'Environnement et des Parcs du Québec, 2009a)

| Intervalle de pH | Effet                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 3,0 – 3,5        | Il est peu vraisemblable qu'un poisson puisse survivre plus de quelques heures dans cet intervalle bien qu'il soit possible de trouver certaines plantes et certains invertébrés à des pH inférieurs.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| 3,5 – 4,0        | Cet intervalle est léthal aux salmonidés. Il existe des indications montrant que la chatte de l'est, la tanche, la perche fluviatile et le brochet peuvent survivre dans cet intervalle, vraisemblablement après une période d'acclimatation à des concentrations non létales légèrement plus élevées, mais la limite inférieure de cet intervalle peut encore être létale à la chatte de l'est.                                                                                                                                                      |
| 4,0 – 4,5        | Vraisemblablement nocif aux salmonidés, à la tanche, à la brème, à la chatte de l'est, à la dorade et à la carpe commune qui ne sont pas acclimatés à de faibles pH, bien que leur résistance dans cet intervalle augmente avec leur taille et leur âge. Les poissons peuvent s'acclimater à ces valeurs, mais de la perche, la brème, la chatte de l'est et le brochet, seul ce dernier peut se reproduire.                                                                                                                                          |
| 4,5 – 5,0        | Vraisemblablement nocif aux œufs et à l'alevin des salmonidés, ainsi qu'aux adultes particulièrement dans des eaux douces contenant de faibles concentrations de calcium, de sodium et de chlorure. Peut être nocif à la carpe commune.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| 5,0 – 6,0        | Nocivité improbable pour toutes les espèces, à moins que la concentration de l'anhydride carbonique libre soit supérieure à 20 mg/l ou que l'eau contiennent des sels de fer fraîchement précipités sous forme d'hydroxyde ferrique dont la toxicité exacte est inconnue. La limite inférieure de cet intervalle peut être nocive aux salmonidés non acclimatés si les concentrations de calcium, de sodium et de chlorure sont faibles ou si la température de l'eau est basse, et peut aussi être nuisible à la reproduction de la chatte de l'est. |
| 6,0 – 6,5        | Vraisemblablement non nocif aux poissons à moins que la concentration de l'anhydride carbonique libre dépasse 100 mg/l.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| 6,5 – 9,0        | Non nocif aux poissons, bien que la toxicité d'autres poissons puisse être modifiée par des changements à l'intérieur de cet intervalle.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |

ANNEXE M

Résultats physicochimiques de l'eau de surface - Lacs et cours d'eau touchés par une fleur d'eau d'algues bleu-vert et ayant fait l'objet d'une déclaration officielle 2006-2012

(Ministère du Développement durable, de l'Environnement, de la Faune et des Parcs du Québec, 2002b)

Depuis 2008, le Ministère a établi qu'une problématique de fleur d'eau d'algues bleu-vert correspond à une densité supérieure ou égale à 20 000 cellules/ml. Les données antérieures à 2008 ont été révisées en appliquant ce seuil. Les municipalités inscrites au bilan sont riveraines du plan d'eau. Elles ont été touchées ou non par une fleur d'eau d'algues bleu-vert.

- ☒ Plan d'eau touché par une fleur d'eau d'algues bleu-vert (résultat supérieur ou égal à 20 000 cellules/ml à au moins un endroit sur le plan d'eau)
- ☐ Plan d'eau qui n'est plus considéré comme touché (résultat inférieur à 20 000 cellules/ml ou observations visuelles seulement sans confirmation de l'atteinte du seuil)
